American Officers Think War's Ended.

Filipinos Bearing White Flags Returning Home.

Their Best General Has Come Over to Our Side.

Hostilities Now Limited to Occasional Exchanges of Shots—Spaniards Say Guerrilla Warfare Will Be Kept Up Until Wet Weather.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MANILA, April 2, 6:30 p.m.—[By Manila Cable.] The American troops under Gen. MacArthur are still resting at Malolos, where everything has been quiet today. Hostilities elsewhere, so far as officially reported, have been limited during the last twenty-four hours to an occasional exchange of shots between the insurgents and troops forming the lines of Gen. Lawton and Gen. Hall, extending from the waterworks to La Loma. But this shooting has been just active enough to make the lives of the soldiers a burden and compel the officers to sleep in trenches clothed and in readiness to repel possible attacks.
Most of the Americans are becoming convinced that the backbone of the insurgent opposition is broken. There are numerous rumors pointing to an early collapse of the insurrection. One of these is that the general, Pio del Pilar, the best fighter among the Filipino officers, will desert Aguinaldo and give his support to the Americans. The Spaniards, reasoning from their experience with the natives, refuse to believe that the rebellion is anywhere near put down. They declare that the Filipinos will not take their defeat at Malolos, with the loss of the city and the report of their so-called government, seriously to heart. On the contrary, it must be borne in mind that the Spaniards will have near the American lines, both in the city and in the country, the insurgent forces, and the Spaniards say, will be followed until the next season compels the Americans to be housed in barracks, and then the Filipinos will return and occupy such towns as the United States troops do not garrison. With the next dry season a repetition of the present operations will begin. Time alone will show how much there is in this theory; but, again, it must be borne in mind that the Spaniards, in all their domination of the Philippines never gave the inhabitants a demonstration of power comparable in effectiveness to that given them by the United States.

A priest and two members of the so-called Filipino congress, who hid themselves in the woods during the fighting which preceded the capture of Malolos, returned there this morning and declared that 2000 of the Filipino soldiers were anxious to give up fighting, and would do so but for their officers, who keep them under arms. The whole country between Malolos and Calumpas is now full of friendly women, children and other people, who are returning to their homes, carrying white flags. The Americans are trying to gain the confidence of the inhabitants by proving to them that if they will return and attend to their ordinary work peacefully, no harm will befall them. Two hundred and fifty civilians came back to their homes in Malolos last evening. Two thousand women and children, with a sprinkling of unarmed men, supposed to be warriors, came to the outskirts of Malolos outside of the city, and afterward sneaked away, carrying all the goods they could.

There has been no little good-natured rivalry as to which regiment—the First Montana or the Twentieth Kansas—is entitled to the honor of having raised its flag first in Malolos. Col. Funston and twenty men of Co. E, Kansas Volunteers, claim the distinction, on the ground as already cabled, of having entered the town at dawn, quickly raised the company flag, but the first flag to be recognized officially was that of Co. C, of the Montana Infantry.

THAT MOVABLE CAPITAL. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PARIS, April 2.—Agoncillo, the agent of Aguinaldo, in the course of an interview published today, says: "The capture of Malolos is not as important as the Americans are trying to make it appear. The Filipinos' government had already determined upon removal to San Fernando, and a small detachment of troops was left with orders to burn the town, and thus to draw the Americans inland. Two months of rain and fever will save the Filipinos their ammunition and a good deal of trouble, and the war will not end while a single Filipino remains to bear arms."

AGONCILLO CHARGES MAJ.-GEN. OTIS with opening the hostilities, and holds the Americans responsible for the transfer of the Spanish prisoners and for preventing the Filipinos negotiating a treaty with Spain. Agoncillo is confined to his room with the influenza.

OHIO FACTIONS

Today's Elections Have National Bearing.

McKisson Has His Knife Out for Senator Hanna.

Wants to Control Delegates to the Next Convention.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CINCINNATI (O.), April 2.—While the municipal elections in Ohio tomorrow are for local offices, yet they have strong bearings on state and national politics, and also on factional interests in both parties. The municipal machinery will have great influence in the selection of delegates to the State conventions to be held next month or later, and the candidates for the gubernatorial and other State nominations are conducting aggressive canvasses now in connection with the municipal elections.

The bearing on national politics is seen in Senator Foraker's presence and in the general course of events. It is a Republican Governor should be elected next November who is unfriendly to the senator Ohio Senator, that Governor would not doubt be at the head of the State ticket for his second term two years hence, when members of the Legislature are elected to choose the successor to Foraker. And the friends of the national administration want a solid Ohio delegation to the National Republican Convention a year hence.

The Republican candidate for Mayor of Cleveland, the home of Senator Hanna, is Robert McKisson, who was the Fusion candidate before the Legislature in January of last year. It is stated throughout the State that McKisson is running for a third term, not for the Mayoralty alone, but also for the purpose of opposing President McKinley, Senator Hanna and others in the Ohio State conventions this year and next year, with a view of controlling the four delegates from the Cleveland districts, and, if possible, other Ohio delegates to the national convention next year.

In other Ohio cities, the factional lines are less directly drawn. In Toledo there are two Republicans running for Mayor, while the Democrats have but one candidate. In this city there is no election for Mayor, but much interest is taken in the election of two of the members of the Board of City Affairs, which controls the local municipal patronage. The usual fight is being waged by the Democrats, and independent Republicans against George S. Babcock, as the Republican "boss."

THOSE SPANISH PRISONERS.

Prime Minister Wants to Get Them Out of "Agile" Army.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Sun's Manila cablegram says that Prime Minister Silveira says that the Spaniards are trying to obtain the release of Spanish prisoners in the Philippines. It appears that many of the prisoners, after their long imprisonment, made common cause with the Tagals. It is possible that many of the Spanish officers are serving in the Philippine army, and if this is the case, the Americans are trying to obtain the release of Spanish prisoners in the Philippines. ## CAPTURE OF ILOILO.

Story of a Correspondent Who Was at the Scene.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—A staff correspondent of the Associated Press, with the American troops in the Philippine Islands, sends by the steamer Nippon Maru, the following notes from the field:

The engagement which resulted in the capture of Iloilo, was begun by the insurgents firing on the Petrel. The Boston and Petrel replied with shells which soon laid the place in ruins. The insurgents then retired after burning the town. Most of the white people were out on the transports when the conflagration started. One instance is known where this was not the case, and it was one calculated to steady the aim of every soldier in Iloilo: The insurgents captured an English girl, and locking her up in her house, burned it down over her head. She managed to escape, but died shortly afterward of her injuries. Iloilo now presents a sad spectacle of desolation. All that is left of the once beautiful city are a few buildings along the waterfront. Already, however, matters are becoming settled. A postoffice has been established, also a courthouse and all the necessary offices for transacting the business of the state.

"The Americans have captured a battery of seven guns from the insurgents and brought their prizes into the city. The losses of the insurgents on this island are not known, as they removed their dead and wounded from the field. The men from Colorado and South Dakota, on the east line near Manila, had a little excitement and exchanged a few visiting cards with the insurgents at noon on the 23d of February."

"COS. H AND M OF THE FIRST COLORADO, under personal direction of Col. McCoy and Maj. Anderson, poured volley after volley into the city."

SHIPWRECKED SCIENTISTS.

Prof. Anthony's Party Returns Missing Its Lot of Curios.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Nine shipwrecked scientists, who sailed from this port early in February on the schooner Stella Island for a cruise in the South Seas, have arrived here from Guaymas. As has already been reported, they were picked up by the steamer Curacao in Magdalena Bay, near where their little vessel was wrecked.

Prof. A. W. Anthony, who headed the scientific expedition, was the master of the craft, and with him were Charles Littlejohn, who acted as mate, R. C. McGregor, R. H. Bink, Arthur Whitlock, Charles Jones, Joseph Gaylord, George Spencer and H. B. Keating. The object of their trip was to study the flora and fauna of the Pacific Coast near the Equator. They charge that the Mexican customs officers confiscated all that they saved from the wreck of the schooner.

DIRTY RHODES.

THE "EMPIRE BUILDER" A NARROW-TIRED INDIVIDUAL.

Tries to Prevent a One-legged Trooper from Recovering Damages for the Missing Limb by Pleading That the Jameson Raid Was Criminal.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Sun's London cablegram says a case now before the courts in London, arising out of the Jameson raid, discloses Cecil Rhodes in an amazingly mean-spirited attitude. A trooper named Burrows, who took part in the disastrous fiasco, was severely wounded and lost one of his legs. Like the rest of the rank and file, he believed that the leaders were waging legitimate warfare, and had the British government behind them. He learned differently, and brought suit against Rhodes and Jameson for compensation for his injuries.

The defendants have come into court with a "demurrer" to stop the suit in its initial stages, on the ground that a man who has shared in a criminal act with another can have no redress for anything that has happened to him arising from his guilty conduct.

The numerous fervent supporters of the "empire builder" in the press are evidently ashamed of such low juggling with words, for they have hushed up the case as far as they can in their columns. But as the Times is the official law reporter, it could not avoid printing at length the judgment on the point raised.

It should be said that Justice Grantham, who presided in the Queen's Bench Court, where the case was heard, was an extreme Tory member of Parliament, and is a bit of a fire-eater on the bench. Grantham's judgment dismissed the demurrer, taxed the costs to the defendants and soundly scolded Rhodes and Jameson on the admission of their own guilt, and the plea to avoid the consequence of their acts. The case will now go to trial.

Finns Rising Up.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The Finnish-American Central committee recently appointed by the Finlanders resident in the United States to organize opposition in the Western Hemisphere to the "Car's" resolution of the Russian Federation of Finland, today issued an address to all Finlanders in the United States and Canada, calling upon them to rise up as one man, strong in the knowledge of the righteous cause, and uphold their sacred rights before the world.

Serious Storm for Stockmen.

PIERRE (S. D.), April 2.—A serious eastern snowstorm has been raging here all day. The hay supply is practically exhausted, and as grazing is impossible, the stockmen are presented with serious conditions.

Strauss Seeks the Sultan.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 2.—Oscar Strauss, the United States Minister, had an audience with the Sultan yesterday. The interview, which was private, was of the most cordial character.

The Paris and Sherman.

NORFOLK (Va.), April 2.—The American liner Paris arrived at Old Point this afternoon, direct from Santiago de Cuba. All aboard were well, and while regretting Mr. Sherman's enforced departure, expressed themselves as being pleased with the trip.

FIRED MANILA.

Rebels Apply the Torch to the City.

Disastrous Conflagration and an Attempted Uprising.

Washington's Birthday Ends in Wildest Confusion.

Hose Cut and Other Impediments Put in the Way of Firemen.

Magnificent Spectacle Presented by the Flames—Flank Movement.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MANILA (P. I.), March 1, via steamer, or Nippon Maru to San Francisco, April 2.—[Staff Correspondence of the Associated Press.] After many false alarms, and frustrated attempts, the oft-repeated threats of the rebels to burn Manila and massacre every European and American within its walls, culminated in a disastrous conflagration, and an attempted uprising, which was promptly checked, on the night of Washington's birthday. That preconcerted arrangements had been made to fire the city in half a dozen different places simultaneously, there can be no doubt, but fortunately the plans miscarried for various reasons, and the natives themselves, or at least their sympathizers, lost as much, if not more, than those upon whom they sought to wreak their vengeance.

A quieter day than that of February 22 it would be difficult to imagine. All the banks and leading mercantile houses were closed, and except for the most necessary errands, were open, it seemed more like Sunday than a holiday, the excessive heat and the condition of affairs outside having kept most people indoors. About sundown, however, the town bestirred itself, and the streets were soon filling with people taking an airing before dinner, it being the custom here to dine at 5 o'clock and retire immediately afterward. Just as the long strings of carriages which daily pass and repass each other on the Luneta were forming for the procession homeward, a dense black column of smoke rolled up above the intervening roofs, and almost immediately afterward an ominous red glare was reflected from the sky. Murmurs of horror were followed by sharp orders to coachmen, and there was a wild scramble for the city. Even when this was reached and it was ascertained that the fire was in Santa Cruz district, some distance from the residence section, the alarm was not abated, for no one doubted that incendiaries were at work, and none knew where the next blaze might not be started.

On the streets in the vicinity of the fire, which was within two blocks of the Escolta, the wildest confusion reigned for some time. People scurrying here, there and everywhere, the blaze had started in a row of two-story modern buildings with brick foundations, on the Calle La Costa in the center of the Chinese section, and as several of these had been fired within a few minutes of each other, the excitement assumed alarming proportions. The local fire brigade turned out with commendable promptitude, but with more haste than discretion proceeded to pour three tiny streams of water from as many lines of hose upon the red-hot brick wall of one of the buildings fired, which was already doomed, instead of attempting to prevent those opposite and adjacent from igniting.

The consequence was that by the time Gen. Hughes and his men arrived on the scene and commenced to clear the streets, the fire was spreading on both sides of the Calle La Costa, and a stiff breeze was fanning it forward. During the excitement the hose was cut five times, and other impediments placed in the way of the firemen. Upon learning of this Gen. Hughes issued orders to his men to shoot the first man who interfered with the checking of the flames, or attempted to start others. Several natives who picked up burning waste and darted off with them were either shot or bayoneted by the guards, and then a general round-up of all natives on the streets in the vicinity was ordered. As thousands of people were vacating their houses and carrying off their effects, and the sidewalks and roadways were littered with furniture for blocks, this was a work of some difficulty, but by degrees the soldiers corralled hundreds of protesting natives and hustled them into yards and vacant lots, where they were guarded until the excitement subsided.

About 9 o'clock the European volunteer fire-brigade arrived on the scene with a modern engine, and after three hours' work the fire was controlled. Meantime the whole of the block in which the blaze originated, two-thirds of that on the opposite side of the street, and a block and a half west of it had been completely gutted.

From a spectacular standpoint, the fire was a magnificent sight. The flames leaping from the wooden structures fifty feet into the air, while millions of sparks glistened among the rolling clouds of smoke, and fell in golden showers upon adjacent roofs. Scores of fires were started by these sparks to windward, but as every one was alive to this danger, they were promptly quenched in their incipency.

Shortly after midnight, just as the weary workers and watchers were repining to their quarters, congratulating themselves that the fire, had though it was, had been no worse, another blaze was reflected from the

PHOENIX PATROLMEN IN A FREE FIGHT.

Plot to Rob a Train Spoiled by a Sheriff—Justice Too Expensive a Luxury for Tempe.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) April 1.—[Regular Correspondence.] There happened south of Agua Caliente a few days ago an episode that recalled the wilder days of the Territory. Horse stealing had been all too prevalent in the lower Gila Valley. Two Spanish-speaking deputy sheriffs, Abran Molino and Fernando Corilla, were provided with John Doe warrants, and were started southward on the railroad eight horses that had been stolen the day before.

The officers, in the early morning, came upon the horse thieves as they were preparing breakfast at a well only six miles from the Mexican line and about fifteen miles south of the Ajo mine. The deputy sheriffs were lighted as to the identity of the officers, who accepted an invitation to dismount and eat. Breakfast over, the warrants were produced and the horse thieves, Leandro Imperial and Ricardo Amabisco, were notified they were prisoners. They drew their revolvers and commenced action. Molino and Corilla responded in kind, but the thieves ran to shelter of rocks and for a while were safe. The deputy sheriffs were then and thus swooped down upon their prey, opening a Winchester fire upon them in route. This was too much for the Yumepal and Amabisco, who surrendered. The casualties of the affair comprised the wounding of Molino seriously, in the foot, and the killing of a horse belonging to G. W. Cameron. The prisoners were returned to Agua Caliente, where they were bound over to the grand jury of Maricopa county.

B. H. Munson was found drowned in the Maricopa Canal near Phoenix, Tuesday. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of plain "drowning," but there is little doubt that it was a case of suicide. Munson's mind had been somewhat unhinged lately from religious mania. He had been a member of a church, but an ordinary single baptism would not suffice to wash his sins away. It is believed that he had merely waded into the canal, and a little amateur baptism had been swept away by the swift current. The clothes worn were found tightly packed with him, and he was deposited by the silt-laden water.

Munson's death was mainly notable through the fact that it was found that he had been a witness of the affair last summer, wherein Minnie Powers was killed by her lover, Belcher, who thereafter was supposed to have committed suicide. Belcher, one of the witnesses at the inquest, testified that Munson, seeking admission to his church, had confessed to him that he had killed Belcher, and the latter had killed his mistress. This statement is believed by the local peace officers to have had little more foundation than the imagination of Munson's disordered brain. From developments subsequent to the killing, however, it is positively known that Munson must have been a witness to the affair. Belcher was found shot through the mouth, with every indication of self-destruction.

Ramon Ybarra, 27 years of age, committed suicide near Tempe, by shooting himself with a revolver, the ball penetrating near the heart. He had long enough to tell that he had become worried through reports that he had been using for his own gain the funds of the estate of Manuel Gonzales, of which he was administrator. Ybarra bore an excellent character. Wednesday C. F. Almsworth, Attorney-General of Arizona, who would be under arrest, under the operation of a bench warrant issued by a Justice of the Peace of Coconino county and served by a Deputy Sheriff of the same bailiwick. Despite the usual legal axiom covering the situation, the Attorney-General acted as his own lawyer and at once sent a clerk to seek Justice of the Peace Johnstone, with a blank habes corpus form. The case was forthwith heard, the Coconino justice was adjudged to have passed the line of his jurisdiction, and the deputy was compelled to go north without his prisoner.

Tempe, nine miles east of Phoenix, is a town that usually furnishes the press either with criminal items of singular brilliancy or with none at all. It has police officers, but they have little to do. A stranger saw fit to place in contempt a town ordinance that prohibits profane or vulgar language in the streets. When arrested he pleaded guilty. The magistrate fined him $50. The man announced he would prefer to accept the alternative of five days in the City Prison. There is a City Prison, but it is never occupied or guarded. To send a man to the City Prison for fifty days would have depleted the town exchequer. It was too much. On petition of prominent citizens and taxpayers, the sentence was scaled down to a fine of $8, the amount the stranger happened to have in his clothes, and a jail term of three days. And thus outraged justice was vindicated.

Twice has the city of Phoenix insisted upon the arrest of all persons in the act of expectorating on the nice new sidewalks of which the municipality is so proud. It was designed as a sanitary provision to discourage the dissemination of bugs, bacteria and microbes, but hasn't worked that way. The first man to be taken in under the ordinance was Pierce Evans, City Attorney, the man who drew up the local statute. He escaped with a $1 fine and an invitation to the police force to drown their sorrow at his expense. That was over a year ago. Yesterday the second victim was hailed. Recorder McDonald was fined $2. He was not a consumptive; was only afflicted with an inordinate appetite for what Arizona generally term "eating to hacco."

rather than for purposes of offense. As a result of the fracas the City Council has evoked the permits whereby special officers were allowed to carry revolvers, a club being deemed all that is necessary in the occupation. Medlary has been fined for aggravated assault and for carrying a concealed weapon.

YUMA.

County Treasurer Kills a Beastly Wretch.

YUMA (Ariz.) April 1.—[Regular Correspondence.] D. L. DeVane, County Treasurer of Yuma county, shot a man dead last Saturday. The grand jury, in session, has just declared the deed justifiable one, and DeVane has gone free, sustained by his fellows as having done that which was natural and even commendable.

The man killed was John McVeigh, a worthless town loafer, but considered harmless. He had lived for several years in the old quartermaster's buildings in West Yuma. He was 51 years old, an Irishman. Friday last he enticed a five-year-old daughter of DeVane into a detached building and criminally assaulted her. When the parents learned of the crime the father started out to find the fellow, who was well known both to him and his daughter. He met him in the railroad cut near the Southern Pacific Hotel, in session, has just declared the deed justifiable one, and DeVane has gone free, sustained by his fellows as having done that which was natural and even commendable.

The body of an unknown white prospector was found down the Colorado River near Port Lobos. There were two bullet holes in the head. The body is believed to be that of one of a party of miners that left Yuma four months ago, to explore for mineral in the region about the mouth of the river. The Mexican authorities believe the man likely was killed, probably through insanity from lack of water. The theory of foul play is disproved through finding with the body a small sack of gold dust, and a good revolver.

TOMBSTONE.

Plot to Rob a Train Spoiled by the Sheriff.

TOMBSTONE (Ariz.) April 1.—[Regular Correspondence.] Sheriff Scott White has three unnamed Mexicans in custody, and believes he has the principals of a plot to rob the morning train of the New Mexico and Arizona Railway, the Sonora express and the passenger train at 4:30 o'clock. Several nights ago a telegraph pole was found to have been chopped down and the wires cut. It is believed it was then intended to take in the train, but that the would-be robbers were somehow frightened away.

The dry skeleton of a man who had been several years dead, has been found in the Huachuca Canon of the Huachuca Mountains. The bones listed about the bones are those of William Wolverson, a former resident of the San Pedro Valley, who disappeared more than three years ago. Wolverson left the Thompson ranch on the San Pedro, mounted, to go to Bisbee. Later his horse, still saddled, returned to the ranch, and was later found to have been beyond Bisbee, on foot, and then all trace of him was lost. A few months prior to his disappearance he had been kicked by a horse on the head, and he occasionally became somewhat deranged.

Malcolm Barfoot is in the County Prison, charged with the murder of twelve head of horses from B. Riggs, the animals having been taken from a ranch near Pliny Canyon. This particular case is one of many charged up against the prisoner. The Barfoot family had formerly lived in the Riggs neighborhood. To get rid of them, the Riggs family moved to the border into New Mexico and coolly reassumed the brands sold, adopting, as well as their own, the Riggs horse brand. The twelve head of horses taken were among the best of the Riggs driving stock. Malcolm Barfoot was a clerk in the Riggs brand. N. M. Officers are after his brother Noah, who, at last accounts, was driving the twelve horses still farther eastward. A third brother, who has been loading around Wilcox for several weeks, was found to be wanted in Silver City, N. M., for stealing a horse and saddle. The saddle was found in his possession, and he was forthwith dispatched to stand trial in the neighboring Territory.

WINSLOW.

Five Cattle-Killing Mexicans Caught, Unprovoked Murder.

WINSLOW (Ariz.) April 1.—[Regular Correspondence.] Burt Mossman, superintendent of the Arizo Land and Cattle Company, and Deputy Sheriff Bargeman have been having a little round-up the last few days, gathering in Mexicans suspected of killing range cattle. They have cornered men, all of whom have been bound over to the grand jury, and placed at interim in the County Jail at Holbrook. One of the five especially distinguished himself by resisting arrest, participating with considerable nerve in an unequal duel with his two captors. From behind the shelter of a tree he fired four rifle shots at Mossman and Bargeman, but without effect. The two Americans separated to flank the enemy, who, detecting the maneuver, took to his heels, later to be captured at home where the others were picked up by strategy. By name the prisoners are Antonio Baraga, Jose Chavez, Adolfo Baca, Mariano Candelario and Gavino Carrillo. In one of the five was found ample evidence in the shape of hides and newly-slaughtered beef.

Deputy Bargeman is winning a name for himself as one of the most nervy officers of the West. It was he, two years ago, who ran down the outlaw gang on the upper Apache reservation and single-handed fought for hours a half dozen of the desperadoes. Thomas K. McSweeney, a section foreman on the Santa Fe Pacific, was fatally shot in Winslow last Tuesday by John Smiley, a discharged section hand. McSweeney had expert attendance at once, and was taken soon after to the hospital. He was placed in the Santa Fe Pacific hospital, but died next day. He had been shot through the kidneys. He left three small children and a widow. He was preparing the day of the shooting, to send the wife to El Paso for treatment by an oculist. McSweeney was 36 years old, a very fine physique, and very popular among his associates. The murder was entirely unprovoked.

SAMOAN AFFAIRS.

Satisfactory Termination Is Looked For.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, April 2.—The opinion is expressed in official circles here that the outlook for a satisfactory and peaceful adjustment of Samoan affairs is decidedly hopeful. The statement was made today in a well-informed quarter that it is altogether likely that the joint commission, by virtue of the plenary powers vested in its individual members, will be able to conclude a settlement of the Samoan question satisfactory to all the powers concerned, and that there is such an understanding between the three powers as almost certainly will prevent any disagreement such as would make it necessary to ask King Oscar of Sweden and Norway to act as umpire.

SOME STATISTICS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, April 2.—The people, productions and commercial and strategic importance of the Samoan Islands are discussed in a publication just issued by the Treasury Department. The islands lie in an almost direct line between San Francisco and Australia, and slightly south of the direct steamship line connecting the Philippines with the proposed Panama or Nicaraguan interoceanic canals. Their special importance, therefore, is stated, lies more in their position as coaling and repair stations on these great highways of commerce rather than in direct commercial value, their population being small and their imports and exports of comparatively little importance.

The group consists of ten inhabited and two uninhabited islands, with an area of 1700 square miles and an aggregate population, according to latest estimates, of 35,000 people, of which something over 200 are of European descent. The islands are of volcanic origin, but fertile, producing coconuts, cotton, sugar and coffee; the most important, however, being coconuts, from which the "copra" of commerce is obtained by drying the kernel of the coconut. The exportation of copra from the islands in 1896 amounted to 12,555,900 pounds, valued at $231,372. A considerable proportion of this was exported to the United States and a larger proportion to Germany, whose citizens control its commerce through a trading company which has long been established there. In 1896 the imports were $304,159, of which $47,552 came from the United States; $49,802 from Germany; $178,857 from Australia; $10,000 from Great Britain, and $21,901 from other countries. The exports in 1896 were $263,407, of which $231,372 was copra.

KAUTZ'S CAUTERIZING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] LONDON, April 2.—The Times in an editorial on the Samoan controversy, says:

"We do not suppose that England will offer any objection to the joint commission proposal. Although Admiral Kautz's denigrating fashion of referring what he means is ill-adapted to soothe the susceptibilities of others, his dispatch has the merit of raising a direct issue. Probably the best way of securing a modus vivendi is to let some party attend in a body. Their secretary, Miss Harriet H. Hutchins, will speak on 'The Realm of Literature for Women.'"

MONROVIA.

MONROVIA, April 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] The schools, which have been closed for a week on account of the late rains, opened on Monday. No new cases have developed and it is now thought that there will be no further spread of the disease.

Monrovia's well-laid plans for increasing the water supply are now being carried into effect. The belief grows that the city will soon own an abundant supply. There are groves of figs and mangoes and spring water is being sought with vigor. Barley and alfalfa are looking fine, and indications point to a big crop.

At the Wednesday session of the Woman's Parliament the ladies of the Saturday Afternoon club will attend in a body. Their secretary, Miss Harriet H. Hutchins, will speak on "The Realm of Literature for Women."

CAMP STURTEVANT.

CAMP STURTEVANT, March 31.—[Regular Correspondence.] The recent rains aggregated 3.53 inches, and have produced a marked effect upon vegetation in the mountains. The band of burros which was wintering in the cañon of the West Fork of the Santa Anita, was attacked by animals last month, presumably by mountain lions, and six were killed.

A party consisting of Mrs. H. F. Brownell, Miss Alice Brownell and J. R. Tillinghast of Providence, R. I., and John W. Parkhurst of San Francisco visited the camp Thursday.

A Hundred Reasons.

Can be given by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best and most effectual cure for every form of indigestion. They are in the tablet form, which renders their good qualities indefinitely, while liquid preparations become stale and useless with age. They are convenient, can be carried in the pocket, and taken when needed. They are pleasant to take. After each meal dissolve one or two of them in the mouth, and, mingling with the food, they constitute a perfect digestive, absolutely safe for the most delicate stomach. They digest the food before it has time to ferment, thus preventing the formation of gas and keeping the blood pure and free from the poisonous products of fermentation. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the only remedy designed especially for the cure of stomach troubles and nothing else. One disease, one remedy; the successful physician of today is the specialist; the successful medicine is the medicine prepared especially for one disease. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets make the complexion clear by keeping the blood pure. They increase flesh by digesting flesh-forming foods. A single package taken at one time would not hurt one, but would simply be a waste of good material. Over six thousand men and women in the State of Michigan alone have been cured of indigestion and dyspepsia by the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package.

Women who use soap don't do so because they know it's the best. Probably they haven't given a thought to the matter. They inherit the soap-habit—their mothers and grandmothers did, before them. Women who use Pearline do so, because they have used soap and have found Pearline to be better—more effective, saving time and rubbing; just as harmless, and more economical.

PLENTY OF WATER.

The common test of the season is the rainfall of the preceding winter. Yet this is, after all, a very unsatisfactory standard from which to make calculations. Barring the storage systems, it is evident that any supply of moisture which is in excess of that required to thoroughly saturate the soil must find its way at an early date to the sea, and any moisture which may be supplied by nature must, in a comparatively short time, in any event, follow the same course. Thus it is that rain, which comes early in the winter, cannot furnish water for summer irrigation, save in cases where it is stored in artificial reservoirs, or in the subterranean natural reservoirs of the lower valleys. Early winter rains are desirable for starting the growth of wild feed, and preparing the ground for cultivation, but the late rains are the ones which furnish the moisture which remains for summer irrigation, artificial or natural.

Discarding the desire for wild feed and moisture for preparing the soil for cultivating, as well as for filling the storage reservoirs, it is evident that the rain which comes after the first of March must be that which is depended on for crops. If, after March 1, the ground is thoroughly soaked, on hill and in valley, there can be no dearth of irrigation water throughout the summer, and that is the condition in which this section is placed at the present time. Not only is the soil thoroughly soaked throughout the valleys, but the soil on the mountains is in the same condition. In the latter case, the water will continue to find its way down into the valleys for months to come, and as the water now in the mountains, outside of artificial reservoirs, is as great as it would have been had the rainfall been ten times as extensive, there does not appear to be a possibility of shortage in any place where reliance is placed on natural water supply. While the rain of the present season has come late, it has thoroughly soaked the ground, and no amount of rain could have done more.

Having a condition, therefore, in which all the natural irrigation resources are brought to their normal state for this time of year, it is interesting to note the possibilities which are presented in the use of the water developed during the past twelve months. When the Midwinter Times was issued, careful estimates, made on a canvass of the seven southern counties, showed that there had been developed during the summer preceding the first of this year about twenty thousand inches of water, by sinking wells. Since that time the work of increasing the water supply has gone on continuously, and even the rain has not put a stop to the developments. What the developments of the past twelve months have amounted to is, to a great extent, a matter of speculation, but it can hardly be that less than twenty-five thousand inches have been added to the supply of water. This increased supply has been very noticeable, yet in a great number of cases the water developed has been utilized to supply deficiencies caused by the decreased supply from old sources. It would seem that about half of the water had been so used, the other half having been utilized for the irrigation of land formerly arid. Now, however, it can be expected that very much of the water used to counteract deficiencies in old supplies will be turned to new uses, and Southern California has before it the possibility of using about twenty thousand inches of water already developed on new land, besides the advantage which comes from the momentum of water development which is leading on to the maximum accomplishments along the line of development now so favored.

The significance of the addition of 20,000 inches of water to the resources of the southern counties is so great that one cannot grasp it at once. It seems improbable that any large amount of the land to be brought into intensive cultivation through irrigation will be devoted to fruit-raising. It is rather to be expected that it will mainly be devoted to growing alfalfa and kindred crops, and as every step in this direction implies a corresponding increase in dairy products, whether the hay be fed upon the ground or elsewhere, the increased production of this section must be measured in milk, cheese, butter and condensed milk.

Making allowance for waste of water, it is not improbable that the 20,000 inches or so of water now available for new irrigation will imply the growing of 60,000 acres of alfalfa, on land heretofore adapted only to grain. It is a very conservative estimate that an acre of alfalfa will support one cow, and that the average milk product of a cow will be worth at least $125 per year. This conservative estimate would show a value of $7,500,000 for the milk, while the manufactured product would be worth much more. It is believed, from these figures, that if the present trend in the direction of the dairy industry continues, it will, within a few years, equal in importance the citrus-fruit industry.

It is, of course, possible that, at any time, conditions may go change as to start a line of development in a direction not now in sight, and the possibilities of the new era may develop into realities not now within view. But whatever the trend may be, it is not to be expected that the resources will be dissipated, and the returns in some way will undoubtedly be as great as though the dairy industry should go ahead.

So far as the districts now under systems where water is impounded in the winter for summer use are concerned, there is a general disposition to correct any weakness which has been revealed, and present indications are that there is not one of these districts which will suffer in any degree from the drought of the early winter. Their condition is now much better than the people had good reason to fear might be the case, and wells and other resources are being resorted to in order to still further improve conditions.

The drought which hung in threatening attitude over Southern California is dissipated, and the section is not only restored to its former state, but its people have been so far spurred on to the development of the resources of the land that they find themselves confronted by a condition far ahead of any that before existed. As a result, we shall see great strides in the progress of this section in the near future.

After a long conference between W. J. Bryan and the Governor of Nebraska, the latter vetoed a resolution adopted by the Legislature of that State, commending the Nebraska regiment for its splendid service in the Philippines. The language objected to by Bryan and Gov. Poynter was as follows: "That we acknowledge with gratitude and joy the debt that the State owes them by reason of the honor conferred upon it by their valor while defending in the Philippines the principles of our government and adding glory to our flag." If we were to give Mr. Bryan and his gubernatorial friend a Poynter, it would be to inform them that opposition to such sentiments are as expressed in this resolution, are not calculated to enhance their popularity in their own State, nor in any other State of the American Union. They could find other ways of expressing their feelings "agin' the government," without insulting the brave men who are fighting the battles of their country under the tropic suns.

The New York Tribune sizes up Col. Billy Boy Bryan pretty evenly, as follows: "The more obstinately Bryan persists in Bryanese principles, the sooner there will be an end of Bryanism. It is really dead now, but retains, serpentine, a misleading sign of life in the tail—an organ which Bryan himself now stands for, though he used to represent the other end."

It must be "awfully mortifying" to the people of Spain to read the news from Manila, in view of their years of vain effort to suppress the Filipinos.

Hawaii has no society "400." She is entitled to admission to the Union upon this showing, without further debate.

MORE FRESNO FOOLISHNESS.

The Fresno Republican, having exploited the monumental stupidity of its editor by attacking in ponderous seriousness a playful suggestion which recently appeared in THE TIMES, relative to the utilization of growing squashes as a source of motive power, attempts to square itself in the following paragraph, which evinces even a more asinine quality of stupidity, if such a thing be possible, than that indicated in the first article. The Fresno paper says:

"The LOS ANGELES TIMES accuses the Republican of stupidity in not seeing that its remarkable article proposing to harness squashes to run engines was a joke. We did give THE TIMES the benefit of the doubt by expressing the hope that the article was a joke. But THE TIMES published the same day, on the same page, another scientific article that was not a joke, though it was just as ridiculously false and no more seriously written. If a man or newspaper says two equally foolish things with equally sober mien, and means one of them in ignorant earnest and the other in solemn fun, how shall we distinguish which is 'other'?"

The "other scientific article" to which our unesteemed contemporary alludes, was probably an editorial referring to the remarkable achievements of Charles Tripler, in the manufacture of liquid air. If the Fresno editor can find in THE TIMES' editorial on this subject a word or a sentence which is "ridiculously false," or in any sense "foolish," let him point out the falseness or the foolishness, by quotation from the article and comment thereon. If he cannot do this, let him stand self-confessed to having written himself down an ass.

The whole scientific world is interested in and amazed at the results accomplished by Prof. Tripler in the production of liquid air, and in the adaptation of that product to various uses. This paper, in the article referred to by its unesteemed contemporary, gave a brief resumé of some of the results achieved by Prof. Tripler. Most of these results are so well authenticated—having been verified by practical experiments before large audiences, comprising many eminent scientists—that to question them would be both idle and foolish.

One of the claims set forth by Prof. Tripler, however, is not to be accepted without the most thorough and exhaustive demonstration. Briefly stated, Prof. Tripler's claim is this: (1.) That by the use of steam or other source of mechanical power, he can produce three gallons of liquid air (the temperature of which is about 312 deg. below zero, Fahrenheit.) (2.) That, having obtained three gallons of liquid air, he can dispense with any and all other sources of power, and by utilizing the expansive energy of the three gallons of liquid air, as a motive power, he can produce in its expenditure ten gallons of liquid air. (3.) That this process can be continued indefinitely, with no expenditure of fuel, and at no expense save the cost of the apparatus and the wear and tear incidental to its operation.

These claims, as THE TIMES carefully pointed out in the article to which the Fresno publication tries to take exception, are so far at variance with the established principles of science and the laws of mechanics, that they seem incredible. If Prof. Tripler can do what he says he can do, he has discovered a new principle, which upsets existing ideas as to the conservation of energy and the correlation of forces. If he can support his astounding claims by practical demonstration, he will have it in his power to unloose a source of energy which will revolutionize the civilization of the world. His discovery, if it be all that he claims, is the most important ever made by man, and will be further reaching in its consequences than the utilization of steam and electricity.

That Prof. Tripler can accomplish on a practical scale what he claims to have accomplished, seems an unbelievable proposition, so obviously is it opposed to the accepted laws of mechanics and the principles of science. To produce ten gallons of liquid air by the expenditure of only three gallons, would be to create the energy equivalent of seven gallons, practically out of nothing. This certainly appears like a scientific, mechanical and logical absurdity. Yet Prof. Tripler—if he has been quoted correctly—asserts that he has accomplished precisely that result. While questioning the absolute accuracy of his statements, it is just to him that judgment be suspended until he has had ample opportunity to verify his assertions or to acknowledge that he has made a mistake. It is not altogether safe, in this age of scientific iconoclasm, to say that anything is impossible.

Again, THE TIMES invites the Fresno publication to point out any statement, in our former article or in the present one, which is either false or foolish. The editor, if he cannot do so, will stand before the public as a self-confessed ass.

One of the brilliant performances of the Legislature at its recent session was the amendment of section 412, of the Penal Code, prohibiting prize fighting, so as to permit sparring exhibitions under the auspices of "a domestic incorporated athletic club," upon the payment of an annual license fee by such club. The amended section prohibits prize fights, boxing contests, and other like exhibitions, under severe penalties for all concerned, either as principals or accessories, but legalizes such exhibitions when they are given under the auspices of a "domestic incorporated athletic club." There is, after all, some difference between twaddled and twaddledum.

THE STANDARD OF THE OREGON.

Under the above headline, the New York Tribune pays a high but deserved compliment to the battleship Oregon, and insists that in the construction of our warships, in the future, the standard attained in the construction of the Oregon should be kept steadily in view, and should be approximated, so nearly as possible, in all ships of that class. The Tribune declares that there is no likelihood that its readers will be wearied by recurrence to the performances of the Oregon, as they form a topic of enthusiastic and perennial interest. "And that interest," it adds, "simply as a matter of sentiment, is much enhanced now that the peerless ship has been placed under the direct command of the peerless admiral. 'It has not always been the lot of the greatest captains to command the best ships. There were better ships in the British navy than Nelson's Victory. The mighty Dundonald did his best work with third-rate tubs. Paul Jones's Bon Homme Richard was a wretched thing. The Hartford, under Farragut, was a fine ship, but by no means supreme among our fleets. But the combination of George Dewey and the Oregon is one to warm the cockles of the coldest heart that ever beat.'"

Continuing, the Tribune briefly reviews the Oregon's marvelous performances; her voyage of more than thirteen thousand miles around the South American continent, reporting for duty ahead of schedule time, in first-class condition, without a rivet started; her detail for immediate duty in Cuban waters; her magnificent work in the action which resulted in the annihilation of Cervera's fleet off the coast of Santiago de Cuba; her long return voyage, without material repairs, around the continent; and her trip, without having entered a dock, of over five thousand miles to Manila, where she reported, at the end of a remarkably quick voyage, as ready for duty, after a practically unbroken sea journey of twenty thousand miles, earning from Admiral Dewey the high compliment embraced in his brief report to the effect that "the Oregon is fit for any duty." Such a record, as the Tribune declares, is not only unparalleled, but unapproached in naval history. The article concludes as follows:

"Now, we are not drawing comparisons, odious or otherwise. We are not saying to other ships in our navy could have done it. We are not saying that others are not as well built as she. We do not know. No what he has been up to such a test. But what we do say is this, that the standard of the Oregon is the one by which all battleships in our navy are henceforth to be measured. They will be reckoned satisfactory or unsatisfactory according to whether they come up to or fall below that standard. And it is the imperative duty of the government to require, and the part of wisdom of the shipbuilders to assure, that every new battleship that shall be built shall be as nearly the peer of the Oregon as science and skill can make it. Thus far the Oregon marks the maximum that has been achieved in naval construction. Henceforth she must mark the minimum that will be acceptable. Whether it is possible to build a better ship than the Oregon may be debated, though we fancy her own builders will unhesitatingly answer it in the affirmative. But that it is possible to make all new battleships as good as the Oregon admits of no debate, and upon that which is indisputable the nation will insist."

On the 13th of April the $10-dinner crowd of Crocker-Belmont Democrats and the $1-dinner crowd of Bryan-Altgeld Silverpops will meet at different points, proceed to feed, and drift farther and farther apart. Between feeds, they will talk much at each other, wave their arms wildly in the circumambient air, accuse, deny, declaim, orate, utter hogwash, howl, roar, kick, belch, split the blue empyrean with raucous yells, smash platforms, affirm, reiterate, reaffirm, argue, discuss, take up collections, call names and raise merry h—l on the Wabash. And on election day in the year 1900 the people of the United States will reflect William McKinley to the Presidency of the republic. The shouters, roasters, ranters and kickers might as well, therefore, save their wind, and keep their money that they may buy further feeds at $10 per large plate or $1 per small plate.

A short time ago many of the eastern papers contained criticisms of some extremely radical and somewhat startling remarks said to have been made by Dr. Herron of Iowa College, an institution conducted under the patronage of the Congregational church at Iowa City. Since then quite a campaign has been waged against Dr. Herron, in Iowa, and predictions have been made that his course would lead to the demoralization and disruption of the college. This has brought some of the Iowa papers to his defense, and many correspondents of those papers have also taken up arms in defense of Prof. Herron, who appears to be a somewhat advanced Christian Socialist. THE TIMES is now informed that President Gates of Iowa College denies that Prof. Herron ever uttered the remarks which raised such a hubbub.

The Mayor of Atchison, Kan., has officially advised every citizen of that town to take a tablespoonful of vinegar three times a day as a preventive of smallpox. The advice would have been complied with more readily if he had said whisky instead of vinegar. We know those Kansans like a book.

We have a grievance against George Dewey; he should have waited until the 24 of May to do business, and then we could have had a hold-over holiday. But stop—probably the admiral thought he had a two-days' job. No one could have realized what an easy thing he was going to have of it.

The Louisville Courier-Journal asks: "What shall the Democratic party do to be saved?" If Col. Watterson will show us any good reason why the blamed old thing ought to be saved, we will supply a recipe. Being dead, the D. P. appears to be fixed just about right.

The war in the Philippines appears to be practically ended. There may be some more fighting, but it will probably be of the guerilla kind, and not of much consequence. The verberae of the rebellion are pretty thoroughly disjoined.

One of these fine morning a squad of our boys will go out and arrest Aguinaldo and lock him up in the calaboose, as a public nuisance. Patience is a great virtue, but we can't stand many more of Aggy's proclamations.

Tesla will probably invent something of commercial value about the time that William Jennings Bryan is elected President of the United States; and even Bryan appears to have a trifle the best of it at this writing.

The oyster trade has formed a trust, but the mollusk will continue to be referred to as the "succulent bivalve," and the joke about church-school stew will go rolling on down through the ages, rumbling as it rolls.

Had Bryan been elected, even $1 dinners would have been scarce for the Democratic shovelry. It was well for the Bryanites to remember this fact, the while they feed their faces.

We hardly wonder that Gomez "wants to go home." Many a self-sacrificing patriot has felt that way when considering the natural-born cussedness of his fellow-men.

The Playhouses

ATTRACTIONS TONIGHT. Three new features will be added this week to the strong bill at the Orpheum. The headliner is the Gypsy Quintette, headed by Charles King, the contractor. Other new attractions are Barnes and Sisson, a team of singers and dancers, in a sketch called "The Singer and the Maid," and Percy Honri, the concertina player. The hold-over are the Marco twins, the Pantzer trio, the Troubadours the ventriloquist, J. W. Winton, and the English musical comedians, Tom and Lillie.

At the Burbank the initial performance of "Erminee" was given last night, and will continue through the week. William H. West and Jay C. Taylor play the comedy parts of the two thieves. Ada Palmer Walker appears in the title role, and the other principals are A. Randolph, Sontou, Maude Leckley, Minnie Huff and Phin Johns.

John L. Sullivan and a vaudeville company opened last night at Hazard's Pavilion, and will play an engagement of four nights.

Vice-President Improving. WASHINGTON, April 2.—Vice-President Hobart is still kept to his house, but is improving slowly. Ex-Secretary Sherman is continuing on the side, and is gaining strength. He is able to sit up for short periods.

PROPOSED HOME FOR LOS ANGELES WOMEN'S ASSOCIATIONS.

Los Angeles can be justly proud of the Woman's Club house, which is soon to be erected on Figueroa, near Tenth street. It will be a graceful structure, and will add beauty to the street, which already has many fine edifices. The new building, a cut of which appears above, is to cost $10,000. It will be two and a half stories high, and will be built in the English style of architecture, of cream-colored terra cotta.

The building proper, which is to be located on the east side of Figueroa street, 100 feet north of Tenth street, will be 65 feet wide. To the north of the building there will be an arcade 35 feet wide, bounded on the north side by a high wall, of the same material as the building. Between the wall and the clubhouse there will be a tropical garden, on either side of a carriage way. This arcade will extend back for 65 feet to the depth of the building. On the front and north sides of the clubhouse there will be a wide portico, supported by large plaster-covered pillars. This will extend the full length and width of the building, and will be roofed with concrete, to make a promenade. French windows will open from the second floor on this promenade, which on the front of the building will overlook Figueroa and on the side, the arcade and garden. The house will be twelve or

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Just now while the policemen are not especially busy it might be a good time for them to drive in a few of the swine who pollute the sidewalks with saliva, tobacco juice, pulmonary secretions and other subjects of expectoration.

Monrovia is to be congratulated on the success with which the smallpox combat in that place. Over three weeks have passed since the Mexican family was quarantined, and no new cases have appeared. Although the time for infection has passed, the quarantine has not been raised, but it looks as if the danger were over.

The outcome of the visitation of smallpox at Phoenix is a notable illustration of what prompt and thorough precautionary measures will do. Everybody was vaccinated, and a continuous patrol and examination of houses in infected localities was maintained. As a result there were but eight cases in the past five months, and the disease now seems to be entirely stamped out, there having been no new cases during the month of March.

There are to be no end of pleasant surprises in store for schoolma'ams when they come to the National Educational Association meeting this summer. The Redlands Facts proposes to furnish lemon juice for them to use in removing their freckles, and the Long Beach Press will furnish them with free ocean water, and the lemon juice. This will put them in perfect trim to return to Los Angeles and be—but there are no Hobsons here.

Some people are most amusing when they are most serious. An illustration of this fact, is a case of mistaken identity in consequence of which a Southern California newspaper speaks of "Gen." Sherman as a man yet living, who will probably "have an opportunity to read his own obituary," and winds up by the hope that "many moons may wax and wane before the man who marched 'from Atlanta to the sea' is called to make that longer and eternal march."

C. C. Bragdon, principal of Lasell Seminary, Auburndale, Mass., seems by no means to have abandoned the hope of seeing a women's college established in Pasadena. The New York Tribune of recent date publishes a long interview with him, in which he sets forth in a forceful manner the great advantages open in this field. There is no question as to the rare opening Pasadena affords for such an institution. It remains, however, to find the philanthropist or philanthropists who will furnish the capital necessary. The rest will be easy.

In order to induce the parents of pupils to visit the schools at Pomona, the supervising principal, F. H. Hyatt, set apart last Friday as "patrons' day," and invited the parents and guardians of the children to be present. The plan seems to have been successful; but it ought not to be necessary to resort to strategy to get parents to visit the schools. Every day should be a "patrons' day." Parents ought at least to care as much for their children as they do for live stock, which they turn out to pasture, and go occasionally to see how they are being fed.

BULLETS END A FIGHT.

Pasqual Gravine Shot and His Assailant Arrested.

Pasqual Gravine is in the Receiving Hospital suffering with two bullet wounds, caused by being beaten with a club. His injuries were sustained during an altercation with D. Dalesandro, on Bellevue avenue, between New High street and Buena Vista streets, shortly before 9 o'clock last evening. Gravine's assailant is locked up at the Police Station on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

Harry Johnson, clerk to Chief of Police Glass, saw a part of the fight and, after separating the men, called to Officer Pauling, who arrested Dalesandro and summoned the patrol wagon to take him and his victim to the Police Station.

One of the bullets fired by Dalesandro struck Gravine in the right nostril, and passing downward knocked three of his teeth out, lacerated his tongue and lodged in the left side of his neck. The other struck the little finger on his left hand, caused a flesh wound there, and, after passing through and breaking his third finger, lacerated the second finger.

Both of the men were apparently under the influence of liquor when taken to the Police Station, and neither of them would tell much about the trouble. Gravine said his assailant mistook him for another man, and, after knocking him down with a club, shot him. Dalesandro was reticent, and refused to say what caused the trouble.

BOUGHT ANOTHER TUG.

San Pedro Breakwater Contractors Purchased the Wizard.

General Superintendent J. W. Wyckoff of the San Pedro breakwater work said yesterday that a contract had been closed for another tug for use in towing the barges that will carry the rock. The tug is the Wizard and was purchased from Capt. W. Gray of San Francisco, as manager of the Shipowners' and Merchants' Tugboat Company. The Wizard is much larger than the average tug and has engines capable of developing 450-horse power. The Wizard has been out of commission for about a year and will require a general overhauling before she is put in operation. It was thought to be about two months before she comes to San Pedro. It is expected that the contractors will be able to do what the tug Hercules all the summer work that is necessary before that time.

PERSONALS.

Hon. D. C. Moody, South Dakota's first Senator, is at the Westminster.

Judge R. M. Carpenter of San Francisco, who came down with Dan Burns, is here.

President A. H. Butler of the California and Oriental came up from San Diego yesterday.

Gen. Thomas W. Hyde, the Bath, Me., shipbuilder, who was critically ill at the Van Nuys, has recovered.

Lieut. R. M. Kerr, who went with the Michigan volunteers, is at the Roslyn from Detroit, hoping to benefit his health, which was shattered about El Caney and along the shore by fever. He says that the stories of the soldiers' hardships are hardly exaggerated, but it was through no fault of the officers in the field. They had often to eat worm-eaten biscuits, and in his company at one time there were not enough well men to take care of the sick. He says that oftentimes men lay down in the sand to die, and their comrades had not strength enough to help them. Kerr lost about fifty pounds in weight.

Very Few Easter Arrests.

Easter Sunday was an exceptionally quiet day for the police. Not an arrest was made in the city from 6 o'clock in the morning until after 9 o'clock in the evening, and there were only seven arrests between 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon and Sunday night. The police say this condition of affairs is due to the closing of the saloons yesterday, all of the saloon proprietors having taken cognizance of the new liquor ordinance, which went into effect the first of the month.

Only two persons were arrested for intoxication from 6 o'clock yesterday morning until nearly midnight last night, and the patrol wagon did not make a trip yesterday until 9 o'clock in the evening.

IN THE OIL FIELDS.

THE MARCH SHORTAGE IN THE LOS ANGELES PRODUCTION.

Present Yield About Seventy Thousand Barrels a Month—Shipments to Arizona—Fullerton Wells—Drilling at Newport—A New Engine—Kreyenhagen District.

The production of the Los Angeles field for last month (March) is figured out to have been about ten thousand barrels short of consumption. This shortage is not greater than it has been for any month during the last three months, and to that extent may be viewed as not altogether unsatisfactory, showing that the production of this field is maintaining itself at about 70,000 barrels a month.

At the offices of the Oil Storage and Transportation Company prices for oil are reported firm at about $1 a barrel, f.o.b. switch. Occasional sales are made in the field below those figures, but as a rule they are for new oil, which has not yet been the subject of storage for any lengthened period.

Arizona has of late been increasing its demand for Los Angeles oil. It is now taking an average of about 2000 barrels a month, most of it going to Congress, Phoenix and Tucson, where it is used for fuel, gas and electric purposes, and as a preservative among some oil men that it would not require any very violent effort on the part of oil brokers in Los Angeles to build up a heavy trade with Arizona, and considering the number of mining mills and smelters that are being erected in that Territory, it would not be a bad thing if it could be worth while making the effort.

The Santa Fe Company report that they are now drilling four of their wells in the Fullerton field, Nos. 12, 13, 14 and 15. The figures showing the output of their wells during March has not been received at the offices of the company, but it is believed from partial reports that the production of their wells will be about the same as that of February, somewhere in the neighborhood of 7000 barrels.

It is learned that the extension of the Fullerton field is likely to prove much greater than was first supposed, and as a consequence those parties who took leases of lands in that section are now closing them up preparatory to commencing drilling operations.

Fullerton is likely to soon become the busiest oil camp in Southern California. At Newport, south of Fullerton, on the coast, drilling has already commenced and shipments of well supplies are being made daily from Los Angeles. The Santa Ana Blade, in an article on these new fields, says: "The game of the richness of the Newport oil fields has attracted widespread attention, and many who are anxious to get into the proposition on the ground floor are endeavoring to secure an interest as speedily and cheaply as possible in adjacent property. Among those already interested in that neighborhood, besides the Newport Oil Company, are F. O. Daniel, J. D. Parsons, C. S. Charles and others, who have posted notices on tide lands as to their claims."

The new case reported yesterday was that of Mrs. Babney, of No. 138 North Spring street. It is a mild attack and would not be considered dangerous. The case was reported to the health officer yesterday, and although investigation was not for other complications, the woman having been in poor health for some time.

The suspected case is on East First street, about two blocks west of the river. It was reported to the health officer yesterday, and although investigation was not for other complications, the woman having been in poor health for some time.
